Russia requested the call, according to The New York Times. Per the White House, Putin and Biden spoke for about 50 minutes. The leaders last call that was made known to the public was on December 7, when Russia said it would send ideas on the crisis to Washington \"within a week,\" Reuters reported. The US Air Force flew two reconnaissance missions over eastern Ukraine this week, the first on December 27 just a few days after Russia said it would withdraw 10,000 troops from the shared border, CNN reported.\n\nMore on the leaders' call:\n Ukraine has been a point of contention for the two countries since the annexation of Crimea in 2014, Al Jazeera reports\n\n Russia denied a new assault on Ukraine during the previous conversation and warned against any NATO military involvement, according to Reuters and Al Jazeera\n\n Biden warned Putin about possible sanctions against Russia in case of an escalation during the December 7 call, AFP reports"}},{"domain":{"id":"29","name":"Events [Entity
